

May 2021 Position announcement:
Manager, Economic Development (Life Sciences)

San Diego Regional Economic Development Corporation (EDC) is a non-profit organization that mobilizes business, government, and civic leaders around an inclusive growth strategy to create a resilient economy that works for all businesses and residents. We use data to drive decision making, maximize regional prosperity, enhance San Diego's global prosperity, and position the region to compete for investment and talent. More information about EDC can be found at sandiegobusiness.org

EDC has an immediate opening for a full-time professional with strong communication, client focused approach, self-motivated personality, and a proven flexible team player who can interface effectively with C-level executives. Minimum of five years of experience in economic development, policy, government, business organization, or public relations is required and experience working with public sector economic development, planning and development services agencies on facility expansions is preferred. Under the general supervision of the Director, Economic Development, this position will both lead and assist with the development and delivery of a framework to support business attraction, retention, and expansion in the life sciences industry. This individual will have the opportunity to shape and execute economic growth strategies that impact the San Diego region.

Our team values are collaboration, integrity, accountability, and hard work. We value diversity of thought, experience, and perspectives, and encourage individuals with non-traditional backgrounds to apply for this position. We are a passionate group of 20+ professionals committed to supporting inclusive economic growth in the San Diego mega-region, and we are especially interested in applicants who are eager to learn and join us in this important work.

While working remotely at least through July, EDC's office is located in San Diego's vibrant downtown. We offer an excellent benefits package that includes a 401k employer-matching program, health and dental insurance, paid parking, and more.
